RAILROAD HEADS CONFER WITH PRESIDENT WILSON WHILE MEN
BALLOT ON HIS PROPOSITION*Executives Expected to Demand Arbitration of All Disputed Points.*MAY ASK TIME TO CONSIDER

When White House Conference Begins, Men's Representatives Are Still Balloting, But They Are Said to Be Ready to Accept President's Plan.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—While the railroad employees' committee of 640 was this afternoon taking a secret ballot on President Wilson's plan to avert the threatened strike, the committee of railroad presidents was in conference with Mr. Wilson at the White House.

To the president's Mr. Wilson appealed to reverse the stand of the managers' committee and accept the proposal to concede the eight hour day, regular time for overtime, and have a commission appointed by Congress to investigate collateral issues.

It was plain the railroad presidents were prepared to refuse the proposition or ask for time to consider it. There were some indications, however, that Mr. Wilson might move them, and, falling in that, call in the financial powers which control the roads.

When the White House conference began, brotherhood leaders said the men still were balloting. It was expected they would accept the President's plan.

Hale Holden, president of the Burlington, acted as spokesman. It was agreed in advance that the railroad officials would listen to Mr. Wilson's presentation of his plan; Mr. Holden should ask questions in order to make the situation clear, and the railroad presidents should return to their hotel to hold a meeting and decide on their action.

It was tentatively agreed that when the answer was sent to President Wilson, it would be given to the public.

The railroad presidents want arbitration under the Newlands act, with two arbitrators for the roads, two for the men and two for the public. This disposition was said today to be to insist upon action of that character, and not yield to President Wilson's plan for an eight hour day unless it comes from an arbitration board.

Some of the presidents are said to feel that the public will support their offer to arbitrate everything in dispute. Some others, however, were of the opinion that if President Wilson chose to exercise his power and refuses to press the men for arbitration, it will be difficult for the railroad executives to continue opposition to his plan.

After the meeting of the brotherhoods had been in session for an hour one of the leaders came out and said sentiment for the President's proposal was by no means unanimous, but an organized opposition to the plan had appeared. Most of them thought the proposition good in the main, but a number found objections to it.

"There are about 500 men in there clamoring for a chance to speak," said the leader who came out. "And if they are heard, as many doubtless will be, there is no telling when we will get to a vote."

PORTUGAL WILL

By Associated Press.

LISBON, Aug. 18.—Major Norton Matton, the Portuguese minister of war, announced today that Portugal soon will participate in the war, fighting on the side of the Entente Allies.

The Portuguese congress voted to join the Allies in November, 1914. A Portuguese naval commander seized 36 German and Austrian vessels in Portuguese waters, February, 1916, and the following March Germany declared war on Portugal because of this action. The Portuguese troops were called to the colors in March, 1916.

The French also made considerable progress in the region of Thiaucourt in the Verdun sector. Fifty Germans were captured.

FINDS RAIL BREAK CAUSE

New York Central Makes Remarkable Discovery After Long Research.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The New York Central railroad has announced perfection of a process for elimination of hidden flaws in steel rails, one of the chief causes of train wrecks. Already, it was declared, the New York Central has reduced rail breaks on its own lines from one break in 600 to one in 142,000.

The process was developed by the New York Central's staff of scientists, under the direction of Plimmin H. Dudley. It comes after 40 years of research by Mr. Dudley and it is asserted solves a problem for which experts had declared there was no solution. Flaws, or interior fissures, as they are called are taken from the rails in re-heating plants attached to the rail rolling mills. The process, it is claimed, is a positive remedy.

S. CONNELLVILLE PROPOSES BONDS TO PAVE THOROUGHFARE

Wants to Be Prepared for Direct-to-Dunbar Movement.

SEWERS WOULD BE PUT DOWN

Solicitor Is Directed to Ascertain Borrowing Capacity of the Borough With a View to Making Much Needed Improvements on Pittsburg Street.

The possibility of a bridge over the Yough at South Connellsville has awakened the council of that borough to the necessity of improving Pittsburg street and at a meeting last night a proposition to issue bonds in the sum of perhaps $30,000 for paving and sewerage this thoroughfare was discussed. It is likely that definite action will be taken at a meeting in the near future.

The plan is to pave the street from the end of the paving at the Connellsville city line to Allegheny avenue. At the same time both storm and sanitary sewers would be constructed and the residents of the main thoroughfare would thus have better sanitation, as well as a modern improved street. The necessity for better sanitary conditions is great. Dr. Samuel Dixon, state commissioner of health, has notified South Connellsville, along with every other district in the state, to clean up and improve conditions. Not much improvement can be made without sewers, the councilmen believe.

If council decides to submit the bond issue to the electors, it will be voted upon at the November election and the winter months will be utilized to sell the bonds and let the contract for the paving and sewerage, providing, of course, the bonds are approved. A similar proposition to bond the town for a comprehensive sewer system was voted down two years ago. An expense of $3,500 entailed to prepare a sewer plan had to be paid by a $6,000 bond issue which the council itself authorized.

Solicitor F. E. Younkla was directed to investigate the legal aspect of the proposition and determine to what amount the borough's bonded indebtedness may be increased. The borough valuation is about $408,000, which would permit of a bonded indebtedness not in excess of seven per cent, or approximately $28,560. The solicitor is to determine whether the borough may issue bonds in excess of seven per cent of the valuation.

Council passed a resolution of thanks to P. J. Flynn for his efforts to have voters appointed for the proposed county bridge at South Connellsville.

Members present were G. G. Langford, R. S. Pierce, Walter Trevitt, and Sherman Weaver.

PRESIDENT VETOES
ARMY BILL; HAY'S
JOKER IS REJECTED

Politics Threatens to Delay Important Preparedness Measure.

FIGHT ON VIRGINIAN RENEWED

Man Just Elected to Federal Bench Fathered Clause Which Would Have Opened Way for Attacks Upon Army by an Officer Active in Politics.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—President Wilson today vetoed the army appropriation bill because of exemption from discipline for retired officers, forced in the bill by the House conferees led by Representative Hay, over the opposition of the War Department. A new bill will be necessary and may delay adjournment of Congress.

Representative Hay said he would reintroduce the bill in the House immediately with the features to which the President objected eliminated. Mr. Hay followed this announcement by reintroducing the bill minus not only the section to which the President objected but with the whole revision of the articles of war eliminated. This threatened to complicate the situation.

There have been broad intimations that the revision which proposed to remove retired officers from the jurisdiction of court martial was in the interest of a certain retired officer who was waiting for a time when he would be immune from discipline by publicly attacking the army. The officer whose name was mentioned was, while in service, very active in legislative affairs, very close to congress men framing army bills and until his retirement was reckoned with a powerful power in legislation affecting the army.

The President's veto of the bill is a development of years of contest between the army and Mr. Hay. The downfall of the continental army scheme and substitution of the national guard against the reconnection of army officers is attributed to him. Only the force of President Wilson's interference put the regular army in the face of Hay's opposition. Recently President Wilson appointed Hay to a judgeship on the court of claims and he is now serving his last term in Congress.

Representative Hay announced that he would seek to re-pass the bill in the House under a special rule next Tuesday.

"The articles of war will not be permitted to get through in this bill again," he declared, after a conference with members of the military committee. "The danger of complication and delay lies in the fact that if the House passes the bill without revision of the articles of war, the Senate probably would reinstate them, as they were passed by the Senate. The President and the War Department were satisfied with that provision."

"The veto," said Mr. Chamberlain, "represents the whole bill and there may be some Senators who will want to renew their fight for amendments that were stricken out in conference."

THREE BIG DAYS
PLANNED TO AID
FIRE PREVENTION

Rose Company Busy on the Program for Second Week of September.

MANY FEATURES ARE IN VIEW

There May be a Hill Climb on Apple Street on Opening Night, When the Automobiles Will Be Asked to Take Part; Merchants to Have a Night.

A committee of the New Haven Hose Company is already at work making preparations for Fire Prevention Week, which will be held the second week of September. So far the plans include an Automobile Day on Tuesday, September 5, a Merchants' Day on Wednesday and a Fire Prevention Day on Thursday.

The celebration will begin on Monday night with a general jubilee. On Tuesday there will be an automobile parade and various automobile contests, under the auspices of the Connellsville Auto Club. A hill climbing contest, probably on Apple street, is one of the features already planned. Apple street is now paved from top to bottom and its incline is such that it furnishes a real test of a car's power. The auto parade will include several hundred cars and a prize will be awarded the prettiest machine.

The Business & Professional Men's Association will be asked to take charge of the Merchants' Day and arrange a program, including a parade. On Thursday, or Fire Prevention Day, there will be various tests of fire apparatus, exhibitions of fire fighting by visiting firemen, a fire prevention meeting and a parade.

Stow township, the champion water batlers of Western Pennsylvania, will meet Meyersdale in a match contest for a $200 side bet and a cash prize. Meyersdale defeated everybody at the recent firemen's convention at Glassport but was prevented from meeting Stow township for the championship. This will be decided in Connellsville.

It is expected that 2,500 visiting firemen will be in Connellsville on Thursday. Other events will be a motor truck race against time. Prizes will be given for the largest uniformed company in the parade, for the best hook and ladder truck in line, for the best band and for other "bests," depending upon how much money is available for prizes.

Martin Rudolph was fined $2.50 on the charge of maintaining a nuisance. He kept a big building which trespassed on other people's property, it is said. Rudolph was also alleged to have kept his premises in a very dirty condition and had been ordered to clean up several times by Health Officer Hetzel.

YOUTH HELD UP;
BEATEN, ROBBED

Three Strangers Attack Him at Lonely Spot in the Second Ward; They Get $4.

Michael A. Niland, 19, of West Brownsville, was knocked unconscious and robbed near the corner of Highland and Gibson avenues about 12:30 o'clock this morning. About $4 was taken from his pockets. He was not seriously hurt and was able to return to his home this morning after spending the night at the home of his uncle, W. E. Niland on Highland avenue.

Young Niland had attended a dance at Shady Grove and returning to Connellsville on the 12 o'clock car and walked out to the North End with a girl friend. After seeing her home he walked down Gibson avenue to Highland. At a lonely spot he was attacked. Although his assailants came upon him suddenly, Niland had time to see that there were three of them and that one wore knee trousers. He was struck with some blunt instrument. He was found about 10 minutes later by a number of residents of that section. Niland revived on the way to his uncle's and was able to walk part of the distance. Nothing had been taken but the money in his pockets. His watch was not touched.

Local Youths, in Far Away Resort, to be Safe From All Harm.

A group of Connellsville youths who will leave early next month to spend a week or two or three at Atlantic City will receive unusual attention from the authorities of the coast resort.

Some kind friends have induced a local city official to write to the director of public safety of Atlantic City, informing him that, inasmuch as none of the young men has been that far away from home before, it would be well to keep an eye on them and see that they are protected and not subjected to undue temptation.

It was suggested to the Atlantic City official that he send a detail of police to meet the Connellsville delegation upon their arrival at the station and escort them to their hotel.

BEAR RUN VICTIM IS BETTER

Hopes Expressed for Early Recovery of Leona Skinner; Morgantown Woman on Way to Husband's Funeral, Has to Leave Boy Behind at Linc.

Another new case of the child plague in this county has been reported, this time in Smithfield, where a little child of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boxdale, well known colored residents of that town, was stricken.

Word from Bear Run today was to the effect that Leona Skinner, the four-year-old girl who was stricken with infantile paralysis earlier in the week, was somewhat improved. The paralysis in her arm was less pronounced and she was able to move her fingers slightly.

Mrs. George C. Neeh of Marlita, W. Va., on her way to Connellsville to attend the funeral of her husband, who died on Wednesday night, was taken off the Baltimore & Ohio train at Point Marion Thursday morning because her little son, Donald, did not have a health certificate. Mrs. Neeh, however, came on through, while her son was taken back to his home by a friend and a guarantee of health provided for him. The boy arrived in Connellsville in the afternoon. It was reported that a woman with five children was put off the same train at Point Marion by the health inspectors. She is said to have had tickets through to Philadelphia and was without funds.

A similar inspection has been inaugurated at Brownsville.

Quite a number of people who had planned railroad trips with children have abandoned them for fear their little ones might be exposed to infection on the railroad trains.

To avoid the confusion in taking people off trains where children have no health certificates, ticket agents are refusing to sell tickets to parents unless assured the little folks accompanying them have certificates. A notice to this effect has been posted at the union station in Brownsville.

Ten more permits to travelers with children under 16 years of age have been issued by the health authorities here. Secretary A. O. Bixler of the Board of Health filed out the certificates for four last night and six more applications were made this morning.

RAINY TAKES NO CHANCES.

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Aug. 18.—In order to protect his three children from infantile paralysis, Roy A. Rainey, a son of the late W. J. Rainey, has established a special quarantine at Conoco Farms, his estate in Huntington. Mr. Rainey has laid off with full pay all but five of the 50 employees at his estate.

Mr. Rainey has taken great interest in the campaign against the disease in Huntington. He has donated an automobile ambulance for the convenience of paralysis patients to an emergency hospital.

WAGE WAR ON PLAGUE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Warning that the infantile paralysis epidemic may appear next summer in other states unless drastic measures are taken to control its course was given today to the National Conference of Public Health Officers by the special committee named to recommend ways and means for its suppression.

A quarantine of one state or community against another was disapproved. The committee recommended that during the unusual prevalence of the disease schools should not be opened without medical supervision by health authorities.

"When schools are opened," the committee recommended, "beginning should be made with high schools and proceeding to lower age groups no more rapidly than complete medical examinations can be made."

MURPHY. FRIENDS SAY, WANTS TO QUIT AS TAMMANY HALL LEADER.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, the Democratic organization of New York city, and a power in state politics, according to persons who are in his confidence, never again will sit at the head of the Tammany delegation in a Democratic state convention. Reports that he intended to retire from his leadership have been current, before, but they have never come in such definite form as they come now from the lips of his friends. According to these statements, the man who for the last 15 years has wielded the scepter in Tammany Hall, through good and evil fortune, with out any one ever seriously disputing his leadership, is determined in all events to retire on December 31, 1917. It is the fond hope of the Tammany chieftain that by that time he will have added to the list of his political achievements a straight Tammany victory in a New York city mayoralty campaign.

TRIMMING BIG LAWN

Horse Drawn Cutter Is Used on the Library Grass.
Trimming the grass on the Carnegie Free Library lawn with a horse-drawn mower is a new wrinkle and observers have been much interested at the sight of a man performing the job in this fashion. The lawn is a big one and it has always been a hard task to get it cut at all. Usually it would take a man several days to put it in good shape.
By the use of a horse, a tub, and a small boy, however, the present trimming has been done quickly and smoothly. An ordinary lawn mower is used, the horse being hitched to it in the usual manner. The tub wash tub is placed upon the body of the lawn mower, and the small boy reclined in the tub. Thus weighted down the mower clips the grass very close, and all the man has to do is to guide the horse.
Incidentally, the lawn now presents a fine appearance.

BLUE NEW COMMANDER OF THE TEXAS, WON FAME IN SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR

Captain Victor Blue, United States Navy, just appointed to command the battleship Texas (after serving as chief of the bureau of navigation, with the temporary rank of rear admiral), has had a distinguished career. In the Spanish-American war Captain Blue, then lieutenant, was promoted and came by landing at Santiago, Cuba, and traveling seventy-two miles around the city to ascertain that Cervera's ships were actually in Santiago harbor. He ran the risk of capture and execution as a spy. Since then Captain Blue has held various important commands.

SUDDEN DEATH

Caused by Disease of the Kidneys.

The close connection which exists between the heart and the kidneys is well known nowadays. As soon as kidneys are diseased, arterial tension is increased and the heart functions are attacked. When the kidneys no longer pour forth waste, uric acid poisoning occurs and the person dies, and the cause is often given as heart disease, or disease of brain or lungs.

It is a good insurance against such a risk to send 10 cents for a sample package of "Anurie"—the latest discovery of Dr. Pierce. Also send a sample of your water. This will be examined without charge by expert chemists at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. When you suffer from backache, frequent or scanty urine, rheumatic pains here or there, or that constant tired, worn-out feeling, it's time to write Dr. Pierce, describe your symptoms and get his medical opinion without charge—absolutely free. This "Anurie" of Doctor Pierce's is found to be 37 times more active than lithin, for it dissolves uric acid in the system as hot water does sugar.

Slippery ask for Dr. Pierce's Anurie Tablets. There can be no imitation. Every package of "Anurie" is sure to be Dr. Pierce's. You will find the signature on the package just as you do on Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for blood and stomach.

WOMEN, DESPONDENCY.
Kidney Disease is suspected by medical men when patients complain of backache or suffer with irregular urination, disturbed, scanty or painful passage. The general symptoms are rheumatic pains or neuralgia, headaches, dizzy spells, irritability, despondency, weakness and general misery. Worry is a frequent cause and sometimes a symptom of kidney disease. Thousands have resulted to immediate relief from these symptoms after using Dr. Pierce's Anurie Tablets.

NEW GREENE COUNTY R. R. GETS CHARTER IN PENNSYLVANIA

Opposition to Enterprise is Now Believed to be at an End.

WILL RUSH PRELIMINARY WORK

Waynesburg Board of Trade Making a Systematic Campaign for Rights of Way in Greene County; Construction
Work to Begin Soon. It is Expected.

The railroad enterprise by which it is planned to build a line from Wheeling to the Conneltsville coke region now has official corporate existence. The state department of Pennsylvania has granted a charter for that portion of the line eastward from the western boundary of the state under the name of the Wheeling & Eastern railroad company. Previously a charter was obtained from West Virginia for that part of the line between Wheeling and the Pennsylvania state line under the corporate title of the Wheeling, Ohio & Eastern. The original name of the West Virginia section was also Wheeling & Eastern but it was changed to West Virginia, Ohio & Eastern when it was discovered that the former title had been assumed by an earlier but now dormant enterprise.

With the granting of the Pennsylvania charter the announcement is made by Thomas H. Swartz of Wheeling, secretary of the company, that the work of securing rights of way in Pennsylvania will be started at once. At the same time it was announced that virtually all the rights of way in West Virginia have been secured and all necessary work preliminary to starting actual construction will now be rushed. It would not be surprising, it was stated, if the construction work is begun within a few weeks.

The preliminary work in the West Virginia section traveled by the new road is now practically finished, and it is believed the rights of way in Pennsylvania can be secured in a short time. This work is being attended to by a committee appointed through the Wayneburg board of trade.

Soon after it became known that the Pennsylvania charter had been granted the Wayneburg board of trade committee began to get busy. The line of the road through Greene county had been divided into sections of one mile each and a member of the committee assigned to each section to secure the right of way. By this method it is thought the work could be done more effectively and much more quickly. The fact that nearly 5,000 residents of Greene county had signed a petition to the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, asking that the charter be granted the company, is taken to indicate that but little difficulty will be experienced in obtaining right of way through the county.

The people of Greene county are widely enthusiastic over the prospects of the road, and are confident that it will be built. Senator D. S. Wildon, I. H. Knox, publisher of the Wayneburg Republican, A. L. Murdoch, president of the Wayneburg Board of Trade, and J. H. O'Leary, cashier of the Wayneburg bank are among the more active members of the Greene county committee looking after the interests of the road on that end.

Directors of the company are now in negotiation with a railroad man of large experience to take the management of the company during the construction of the road and also to serve in that capacity when it commences operation. Contractors are on the ground collecting data upon which to base bids for construction of the road.

It is estimated that 15 months or possibly two years will be required to complete the road between its terminal points. It is said that work on a number of new mines in

DR. JONES' LINIMENT

answers every purpose for which a good liniment is required. It cured Mr. H. A. Horton, of Tekonsha, Minn., of a severe case of inflammation caused by a strain of the muscles of the arm. Used for half a century for rheumatism, sprains, sore muscles, toothaches, etc., etc. Be sure your bottle has the Beaver trade mark.

25 and 50 cents.

For sale by Lathrop Drug Co., and F. H. Harmoning.

Greene county will be started simultaneously with work on the road. These mines will be ready to open when the road is completed, and will furnish traffic for the road from the first day.

The projectors of the new road do not anticipate further opposition to their project. When application was made to the Public Service Commission for a certificate of public convenience, the widow of W. C. Jude, the former Monongahela river coal operator, appeared with her attorney to file objections, claiming that her husband during his lifetime had acquired location rights which would be invalidated by granting rights to the new company. The fact that the Public Service Commission took over a month to consider the respective claims is considered as evidence that a thorough investigation was made before a decision was reached, and that the commission was satisfied that the promoters of the new road are acting in good faith.

COKE MARKETS OF THE SOUTH

Alabama Product Reaches a New High
Price Level; Trade in the Virginia Field is Quiet.

A new high level in the price of Alabama coke was reached during the week when some sales were made at $5 a ton at the ovens for emergency coke, says The Daily Iron Trade. Solicitations for coke business have leaped long since, and manufacturers have had a hard time to fill routine business. The blowing in of an additional furnace has absorbed an additional 500 tons daily of Alabama coke. Regular prices remain at $3 to $3.25 a ton for furnace, smelter or dryer coke, and $1.25 to $1.50 a ton for foundry coke.

The market is stationary with respect to brands from the Wise county, Pocahontas and New River districts of Virginia. Even the slight demand for prompt furnace coke that afforded the only life in the market about a month ago, has disappeared. Foundries are not out for coke for either spot or contract shipment. Wise county and Pocahontas furnace grades are quoted from $3.25 to $3.50, ovens, all for contract delivery.

At the Theatres

SOISSON THEATRE.

"BEYOND RECALL"—A chapter of the "Whodunnit" series will be shown at the Soisson Theatre today featuring Anna Nilsson and Toni Moore. It tells of two young men, financially embarrassed, who decide to seek their fortunes in foreign lands. The one parts from his sweetheart in an angry dispute, while the other finds it difficult to leave his sweetheart, who becomes hysterical. He is seen entering her apartment but was not seen leaving it and when he comes back later to get his suitcase and finds her dead, he is horror-stricken. See the finish of this interesting story. "Under the Lion's Paw," a two reel Bison drama with Rex de Rossett. It is the story of a father disapproving of his daughter's sweetheart. The young man's heroism in protecting his younger daughter from a lion, at last convinces the father of his worth. "The Girl in the Tower," a Big U drama in one reel with Cleo Madison. It is an interesting story of a Swede girl who is robbed on her way to her father. "Kate's Lovers' Knot," a Joke comedy with Gale Henry. Kate, an old maid, is considered a lemon until every-going Bill comes along and then she becomes engaged. Tomorrow the ever brilliant star of the screen, Alice Brady, appears in the World feature, "La vie de Boheme." The life story of the Bohemians, those passionate, loving, carefree people of the Latin quarters, bubbling over with their thrills and joys. Is always interesting, gripping and pleasing.

PARAMOUNT THEATRE.

"SAINTS AND SINNERS."—Presenting the noted English stage favorite Peggy Hyland, is today's feature attraction "Saints and Sinners," one of the world's famous dramas in five acts and has been considered a notable screen achievement. The great distinction and success that this powerful play has attained on the stages of every English-speaking country of the globe, added to its unusual pictorial possibilities makes this subject an unique photoplay offering. But besides these details of importance attaches to the production because the noted British star, Peggy Hyland appears on the screen in the role of Letty, the central character about whom the absorbing and thrilling plot revolves. Miss Hyland's charm and dramatic talent combine to make the characterization one to

We put it up to Hundreds of Dentists

Long before SENRECO was offered to you we submitted it to hundreds of dentists, requesting that they put it to every test. Told them that we believed Senreco to be an unusually good dentifrice, especially as to its cleansing qualities and its remedial action on sore, soft, bleeding gums; in the treatment of Pyorrhea, etc. Submitted the formula and asked them their opinion. They tested Senreco from every angle; some going even so far as to make a chemical analysis.

And They Voted Yes

With practically one accord—said:

"Senreco appeals to me more than any dentifrice I have ever seen." "I cannot say too much for Senreco. It's one of the best I have used." "I can recommend Senreco as the best." "Makes the teeth clean and is free from injurious ingredients, including purgative and grit." "I am indeed glad to get a tooth paste that does the work." "Congratulations you on formulating a dentifrice that gives one a new idea of mouth cleanliness." (These quotations are from the dentists' reports. Originals on file at our office.)

With such endorsements from the men who know; why not go to your dealer today and get a tube of SENRECO—25c. Keep your teeth REALLY clean, and protect your gums against Pyorrhea and decay.

be long remembered. Altogether the extraordinary conjunction of the star and play contributes to make this photoplay one of the most important ever offered by the Famous Players Film Company on the Paramount program. Miss Hyland is supported by Albert Truettner, Bill Toole, W. C. Lampe, Clarence Handyside, Lester Banks and Horace Newham. Tomorrow Charles Ray will be starred in "The Deserter," a Triangle drama in five acts. A Keystone comedy is included on the program. Monday's feature will be "The Outlier," a five part Metro attraction of unusual interest.

ARCADE THEATRE.

"THOSE WHO TOLL"—Nance O'Neil in the character of Jane Brett in "Those Who Toll," the powerful five act photo drama by the Lubin Company to be revealed as a V. L. S. E. feature at the Arcade Theatre Friday, afternoon and night, is provided with a role affording the widest scope for her artistic and tense delineation of emotional stress. Jane Brett, in a story that deals with the problem of capital and labor, is described as a daughter of the people. In Miss O'Neil's care, the character develops into a modern Joan of Arc who sets out to abolish the wrongs imposed upon her fellow workers. Seizing the scene of the story in the oil regions, the author, Daniel Carson Goodman, permits Edgely Lewis with his masterly facility for feature photoplay direction to reveal in his predilection for big scenes where principals mingle with armies of supernumeraries but through which the thread of the story is at all times vividly revealed. "Those Who Toll" is a story of a woman who is wronged by a company of men, who are driven to the point of starvation by the oil fields.

SMALL DECLINE.

Unfilled Tonnage of Steel Corporation Shows Small Shrinkage.

The decline in the unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation on July 31 has proven to be very much less than the estimate of 250,000 tons made by trade observers.

The decline during July was shown to have been only 16,866 tons, the total unfilled tonnage at the end of June being 2,583,392 tons. Reduced production in July because of the hot weather undoubtedly was a factor in cutting down shipments, and thus holding up the volume of unfilled orders on books.

Origin of Sati.
The discovery of the principle of the manufacture of satin was a pure accident. The discovery was made by a silk weaver named Gervais Val. During a dull period of business one day he was packing before his loom, not knowing how to give a new impulse to his trade. As he passed the machine each time he pulled short threads from the warp and, following an old habit, put them into his mouth and rolled them about soon after spitting them upon the floor. Later he discovered a little ball of silk upon the floor of his shop and was astonished at the brilliancy of the threads. He repeated the experiment and eventually employed various mechanical preparations and succeeded in making satin.

Deaf as an Adder.
The expression "deaf as an adder" is from the Psalms of David, where it appears in the following form: "Their poison is like the poison of serpents. They are like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ear, which will not hearken to the voice of charmers, charming ever so wisely." Best Indian travelers tell us that there is a widely prevailing superstition in the east to the effect that both the viper and the asp stop their ears when the charmer is uttering his incantations or playing his music by turning one ear to the ground and twisting the point of the tail into the other.

Saved Her Daughter's Life.
"Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy saved my daughter's life when she had cholera morbus at the age of 11 months. She vomited every few minutes and we were unable to keep any medicine down long enough to benefit her until we gave her this remedy. The doctor being at our house I asked him what he thought about our using it and he said as he was unable to do the child any good, I had better use it. The second dose she kept down and in a short time the bowels were checked and she improved rapidly after that." writes Mrs. Jennie Meyer, Lima, Ohio. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

"What friend? Nephew? What is the fellow to me? Who is he?—another one of La Salle's spawn?"

La Forest, still burlesqued, his forehead bleeding, pressed down the sword-blade.

"The company is a good one," he said bluntly enough. "And just now well worth belonging to. I am François de la Forest, monsieur, one-time commandant at Detroit; at present messenger from the Mar of France."

"That's a messenger—yout! Mon Dieu! you fool! It's some man, what manner is this?"

"No mutinety, monsieur. I left France two months since, bearing the king's own word to St. Louis. With his endorsement I journeyed hither to restore Henri de Tonty to his rightful command of Fort St. Louis."

"You lie!" Casson cried hotly, eyes blazing hatred and anger. "The same foolish trick."

"Monsieur, never before did man say that to me, and live. Were you not felon and thief, I would strike you where you stand. Ah, I mean the words—now listen! Lift that sword point, and I show you dead. Monsieur de Tonty, show the man the papers."

Casson took them as though in a daze, his hand trembling, his eyes burning with malignant rage. I doubt if he ever saw clearly the printed and written words of the document, but he seemed to grasp vaguely the face of La Forest's signature.

"A forgery," he gasped. "Ah, the Haug's, see here! these damned curs of La Salle would play a trick on me. Look at the paper."

"The document is not, and smoothed it out in his hands. His face was grave, as his eyes searched the printed lines.

"The great seal of France," he said soberly, looking about at the faces surrounding him. "What the signature of the governor. How came it here?"

"By my hand," returned La Forest proudly. "You know me—Monsieur François de la Forest."

"Ay, I know you, ever a follower of La Salle, and friend of Frontenac. Toss through his influence you got this. The little use for us to quarrel, M. Casson—the order is genuine."

"Mon Dieu, I care not for such an order; it does not supersede my commission; I outrank this de Tonty."

"Hush, do not play the fool!" "Better the fool than the coward!" "Wait," said La Forest sharply. "The matter is not ended. You are François Casson of Quebec?"

"Major of Infantry, commissaire of the Governor of La Salle."

"So the titles read in this document I present you by king's order for treason to France, and mutilation of official records. Here is the warrant, M. de Haug's, and your orders to convey the prisoner to Quebec for trial."

Casson's face went white, and he struggled madly for breath. De Haug's grasped the paper, so startled at this new development as to be incapable of comprehension.

"Under arrest? For what, monsieur? Treason, and mutilation of official records? What does it mean?"

"This—the man knows, and will not deny the charge. False testimony sworn to, and signed by this François Casson, charged Captain in Chevauchée with cowardice and treason. In consequence the latter was broken of his command, and his estates forfeited to the crown. Later, through the efforts of Frontenac, the king was convinced of injustice, and the estates were restored by royal order. This order reached Quebec, but was never recorded. This Casson was then private secretary to the governor, and the paper came into his hands. Later, to hush up the scandal, he married Captain in Chevauchée's daughter against her will. The day this was accomplished the lost order was placed on file."

"You saw it?"

"Yes, I had the file searched secretly. The order was dispatched from France five years ago, but was stamped as received the day Casson departed from Quebec."

My eyes were upon the speaker, and I failed to note how the accused met this damning charge. It was his voice which drew my attention—high-pitched harsh, monotone.

"Mon Dieu! 'twas not I—'twas La Forest!"

"Tell that to La Forest; though little good 'twill do you. M. de Haug's, in Casson Leaped Forward and Drove Sword Point into D'Artigny.

the king's name I order this man's arrest."

I saw De Haug's step forward, his hand outstretched; then all was confusion and struggle. With the hoarse snarl of a beast, Casson leaped forward, struck La Forest with his shoulder, and drove sword point into D'Artigny. De Tonty gripped him, but was hurled aside by insane strength, reeling back so that the weight of his body struck me to my knees. The next instant, his sword point dripping blood, the runner was beyond reach, speeding for the open gate. What followed I know from word of others, and no view I had of it.

D'Artigny had fallen, huddled in a heap on the grass, and I dragged myself to him on my knees. I heard nothing, a shuffling of feet, a rush of bodies, a voice I did not recognize shouting some order—then the sharp crack of a rifle, and silence. I cared not what had occurred; I had D'Artigny's head in my arms, and his eyes opened and stilled up at me full of courage.

"You are badly hurt?"

"No, I think not; the thrust was too high. Lift me, and I breathe better. The man must have been mad."

"Surely you, monsieur; think you he had hope of escape?"

"He likely he thought only of revenge. Ah, you are here also, de Tonty."

"Yes, but there is small use for me yonder. You are not seriously struck?"

"I bleed freely, but the thrust was in the shoulder. I could stand, I think, with your aid."

On his feet he leaned heavily on both, yet would not be led away, until La Forest joined us. He held in his hand some papers, yet neither of us questioned him.

"Monsieur de Tonty," he said, "I would have private word with you."

"When I help D'Artigny to his bed, and have look at his wound. Yet is it not matter of interest to these as well?"

"I take it so."

"Then speak your message—M. Casson is dead?"

"The sentry's bullet found his heart, monsieur."

"I saw him fall. Those papers were upon him—are they of value?"

"That I know not; they possess no meaning to me, but they were ad dressed to the man killed at St. Louis."

"Hugo Chevet?" I exclaimed. "My uncle, may I not see them, monsieur?"

De Tonty placed them in my hands—a letter from a lawyer in Quebec, with a form of petition to the king, and a report of his search of the archives of New France. The other document was the sworn affidavit of Jules Penabazou, a clerk of records, that he had seen and read a paper purporting to be a restoration from the king to the heirs of Captain in Chevauchée. It was signed and sealed. I looked up at the faces surrounding me; startled and frightened at this witness from the dead.

"They are papers belonging to Chevet?" asked De Tonty.

"Yes, monsieur—see. He must have known, suspected the truth before his death, yet had no thought such villainy was the work of M. Casson (no wrought evidence."

"That is the whole story, no doubt La Forest learned of his search, for he would have spies in plenty, and wrote his letter of warning to Casson. The latter, fearing the worst, and desperate did not even hesitate at murder to gain possession of these documents. Fate served him well, and gave him D'Artigny as a victim. I wonder only that he did not long ago destroy the papers."

"There is always some weakness in crime," commented La Forest, "and the man has paid penalty for his. It would be my guess he desired to place them in La Forest's hands in proof of his loyalty. But, monsieur, D'Artigny needs to have his wound dressed. We can discuss all this later."

It was two days later, and the bright sunshine rested on Fort St. Louis, flecking the sides of the great rock with gold, and bridging the broad valley below. D'Artigny, yet too weak to rise unaided, sat in a chair Barbeau had made beside the open window and to his call I joined him, my arm on his shoulder as I also gazed down upon the scene below. It was one of peace now, the silvery Illinois wind lifting and you among its great islands, the shadowy woods darkening one bank, and the vast meadows stretching northward from the other. Below the bend an Indian village, all ready rebuilt and occupied, slept in the sun, and I could see children and dogs playing before the tepees.

Down the sharp trail from the fort a line of Indian packers were toiling slowly, their backs supporting heavy burdens, which they bore to two canoes resting against the bank. About these were grouped a little party of white men, and when at last the supplies were all aboard, several took their places at the paddles, and pushed off into the stream.

There was waving of hands, and one among them—even at that distance I could tell La Forest—looked up at our window, and raised his hat in gesture of farewell. I watched until they rounded the rock and disappeared on their long journey to Quebec, until the others—exiles of the wilderness—turned away and began to climb upward to the fort gates. D'Artigny's hand closed softly over mine.

"You are sad, sweetheart; you long too for New France?"

"No, dear one," I answered, and he read the truth in my eyes. "Wherever you are is my home. On this rock in the great valley we will serve each other—and France."

THE END.

GAME IN THE ANTARCTIC.

Seal Steak Is Good, and So Are the Breasts and Eggs of Penguins.

In the antarctic there is not the immense variety of game which is to be found in north polar regions; but, on the other hand, it is very abundant and can be turned into food with the smallest exertion. The Weddell seal, which sometimes weighs as much as half a ton, allows itself to be killed and cut up with pinhead calm. Its natural enemies are in the water, and for long generations it has been accustomed to bask in the sun undisturbed.

Seal steak is an acquired taste, but when acquired explorers prefer it to fanned peackings. It is a common assumption that seal flesh tastes of train oil. That is a mistake; the flesh itself contains no fat, but it is extremely rich in blood, and in taste suggests the Scottish delicacy known as black pudding.

Penguins, too, make a very desirable addition to the antarctic larder. Eplures eat only the breast, which is rather like hare, but of a more delicate flavor. The eggs, which are very abundant in the spring, suggest duck's eggs, but are about four times as big. They are excellent eating if you happen to pick a new laid one, but this is certainly something of a lottery, and a penguin egg can be very bad indeed.—London Chronicle.

OVER THE EQUATOR.

The Coldest Air Blows High Up Above This Terra Rotten.

Winds blow not merely along the surface of the earth, but upward and downward throughout the atmosphere. They whirl about in all directions. So it is impossible to construct a weather chart that will really show the directions of the winds, for such a chart would have to be in three dimensions.

Professor Alexander MeAdie of Harvard in an article in the Geographical Magazine describes some of the recent experiments in the upper air performed by sounding balloons. The atmosphere has, roughly, two layers, the lower called the troposphere and the upper the stratosphere. The strongest winds are found just below the stratosphere, and it would seem that pressure changes originate in this region.

The stratosphere is highest over the equator and lowest over the poles, but its height varies with the season. "At the equator," says Professor MeAdie, "the air rises in the air the temperature continues to fall to a much greater height than in temperate latitudes. In fact, the lowest temperature is found above the equator."

Cured of Indigestion After Twenty Years of Suffering.

"After suffering for over 20 years with indigestion and having some of the best doctors here tell me there was no cure for me, I think I only right to tell you for the sake of other sufferers as well as to your own satisfaction, that a 25 cent package of Chamberlain's Tablets not only relieved me but cured me within two months," writes J. H. Grohman, 608 Henry Street, Houston, Texas. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.
